The Great Drive Starts

1175 Captured In Three Hours
47 Local Men In Casualties

The Great Drive for Life Members of the Red Cross commenced promptly at 3 p.m. yesterday and the offensive continued with unabated success up to 6 p.m. When the Cease Fire sounded, it was calculated that 1175 dollars had been captured during the course of the drive, which was directed at the business sector of the town.

The drive is to continue all the week and it is confidently expected that by then over 100 divisions will have been captured and at least 2500 prisoners taken.

Shortage of ammunition and supplies was the reason for the offensive being taken at this time and we are proud to state that up to the present two positions only out of the number assailed have resisted the gas and tear shell barrage.

Among those who went over the top and succeeded in crossing No Man's Land in the first drive were E. R. Muir, A. McKee, J. N. Gosselin and E. G. Allen.

Each business man is asked to donate one half-day to the work of canvassing and the success of the first attack will render the succeeding trenches easier to approach.

A full list of subscribers will appear next week. We hope to see your name there.

Bassano To Have Election At Last

Election Day Tuesday 4th

Nomination Day in Bassano found for the first time in years more ratepayers willing to serve the town than the vacancies on the Council demand.

The nominations for Mayor were H. O. Bredin and H. M. Struthers, the nominations for Councillors, W. B. Welford, M. Milroy and W. J. Tegerdine.

Mr. Bredin accepted the nomination at the practically unanimous request of the business men and prominent citizens of the town. He has served in a presidential capacity for practically every organization of any consequence which has been formed in town of late, and his ability in this direction is very marked.

A man of sound judgement whose word is his bond, and whose integrity has never been questioned, Mr. Bredin should prove the man for the position.

R. H. Struthers, the other nominee, is one of Bassano's old timers whose record and qualifications are known to everyone in town and do not need comment by us.

The nominations for Councillors include two men who have given excellent service to the town before. W. B. Playfair, who was the first Chairman of the Village Council and also our first Mayor, and M. Milroy who served for one term on the Council, both of whom have the full confidence of the ratepayers, and W. J. Tegerdine, a new aspirant for municipal honors, whose candidature will receive support from many.

There is no issue, before the electors save that of the personality, integrity and reliability of the candidates, and there should be an interesting contest on that account.

One fact is especially praiseworthy in a contested election: the men elected will have the knowledge that they are chosen by a majority of ratepayers and their work in Council will be more acceptable for that reason.

Latham Social Great Success

A box social and dance was held in the Latham School on Saturday 26th, which was a great success, $165.00 being taken for the Red Cross and to build a fence around the school. There was a good crowd and dancing provided a few good spots. D. Morrison, Section Fore-

BASEBALL

Hustlers Trim Locals 8-4 In Good Game

The game played on Sunday last between Bassano and the Calgary Hustlers was one of the best yet pulled off on the local diamond, and the defeat of the locals 8-4 did not bring with it any measure of disgrace, for the game was close and exciting up to the last moments when the Hustlers scored three runs in the last half of the innings.

Both pitchers worked good and except for a little better control in the pinches by Lewis, the playwork was very even, Graham making an excellent impression with the local fans.

Jully says that a southpaw always did get his goat and Somerville, our other heavy slugger, confessed to the same weakness, and the failure of these sluggers to hit in the pinches was more or less the secret of the boys' defeat.

The game was always interesting and the class of ball shown by both teams was scintillating at times.

Oderkirk, put up one of the classiest exhibitions in the history of soccer that has been seen here, while Somerville's glomming of a couple of difficult foul balls was a revelation of the finer art of outfield displays. Stencil put over some star shine at short and B. Graham was the headliner in the batting chorus.

The work of the Hustlers was generally admitted to have just a little more snap to it than the locals and the bait they have of hitting in bunches like bassano is a decidedly useful trait for any ball team to carry about with them.

Taken all round the game was entirely enjoyable and the fans are looking forward to some keen contests with the Hustlers in the future, for the good sporting spirit of the Calgary nine appealed strongly to the local crowd.

Many Bassano was the big sport of the evening, paying $15.00 for his box. This was the highest amount paid for a box, but the price for all the girls' boxes was high. Dan came prepared to pay a big price to eat supper with the girls and we must say he is a real good sport. Come again Dan, but you will wait your check book next time, as some of the Dominion boys have started to save up their cash already for the next week.

The Red Cross Society desire to acknowledge two gifts recently made to it by Mrs. W. Morlock, who donated a handsome hand-painted silk cushion, and Mr. Julia Brennan, who is visiting her son at the Pumping Station, for her donation of a beautifully worked collar.

These gifts will be disposed of shortly by the Society and particulars will be announced later.

Donations such as these help the funds tremendously and would be welcomed by the ladies who are striving so hard to keep Bassano's branch to the fore in the matter of work and subscriptions sent to headquarters.

Several of our farmers who are raising stock of any description might easily donate a calf, a calf or a young pig, chickens, ducks, geese or turkeys, without feeling the pinch at all.

Why not one big effort that would result in sufficient donations for a Red Cross Auction?

The farmers could spare it and we believe they would welcome the opportunity, and the townspeople could do their share in other directions. It may not be generally known that a life-membership may be taken out in instalments. Any person who subscribes $25.00 to the Red Cross is entitled to a life-membership, while an ordinary membership may be purchased for $2.00 per annum.

The ladies of Bassano, many of them, are working loyally and consistently for this great war cause—there are many yet who should do more, and more who must begin to take their part in the work.

There is too much of the spirit of "What is So-and-So doing" and not enough of "What am I doing."

If our men were to ask themselves the latter question, how many could answer it truthfully without feeling that in a measure they are forsaking their comrades at the front.

We would like to see every woman in Bassano working for the Society and every man doing his share by contribution.

We are asked to direct attention to the Proclamation appearing on the opposite page. It appeals to young men and will speak for itself.

Monday, June 3rd is the King's birthday, and being a legal holiday, the banks will be closed all day.

The Berry Creek Agricultural Society hold their Annual Sports on that day, and in addition to the many other attractions there, R. B. Bennett and Mrs. Waaghen will give addresses on behalf of the Red Cross. Everybody should attend who can possibly make the grade, for the Society have never yet pulled off a lemon and the program this year is unusually attractive.

By-the-way! It is not customary, and would it not show a much finer spirit for our citizens to celebrate patriotic holidays with a little display of flags and bunting. On Victoria Day one house and one office only had flags flying. The King's birthday should be celebrated, with a much more elaborate display.

A Ford Car Takes the Place of all These Things

WHEN you own a Ford you can do away with many articles that are a source of continuous expense to the man who still drives a horse. For instance, not only your driving-horse and buggy, but the single harness, blankets, whips, currycombs, brushes, horse-shoes, pitch-forks, feed-bins, etc.

In their place you have a speedy, dependable, dignified, roomy Ford Car—complete in itself. It is vastly superior to the narrow, cramped buggy that travels so slowly. And when a Ford is standing idle it does not eat three meals a day, and it requires no "looking after."

A Ford will save you time, trouble, and money. It is the utility car for the busy farmer and his family.

BUY AN IRRIGATED FARM

From the Canadian Pacific Railway

BECAUSE

Irrigation makes the farmer independent of rainfall, and insures good crops, not occasionally, but EVERY YEAR.

Irrigation makes possible the successful culture of alfalfa, the king of alfalfa, which insures good returns in dairying and mixed farming.

Irrigation means later sowing and close settlement, with all the advantages of densely populated agricultural community. Irrigation in the Canadian Pacific Railway Irrigation—each is no longer an experiment, the year that it has been tried having absolutely demonstrated its success wherever intelligently applied.

This is the most liberal offer of irrigated farm land on record.

For full particulars, apply to

Allan Cameron, General Supt. of Lands
Canadian Pacific Railway, Department of Natural Resources 929 First Street East, Calgary, Alberta.

You can buy irrigated land from the Canadian Pacific Railway at prices up to $50 PER ACRE, with twenty years to pay, and the privilege of a loan of $5,000 for improvements (5% interest); no principal after first payment until end of fourth year, reduced interest if settlement conditions are complied with, and no water rental for first year.

Contract can be paid off before maturity if desired.

To Land Seekers.

Write for List of Vacant Lands.

In view of the rapid exhaustion during recent years of available Crown Lands in close proximity to the railways, a change which has been recommended by the Minister in the interests of the settlement, the desire on the part of prospective settlers to procure land within a reasonable distance of a line of transportation has suggested to the Department of the Interior the listing of the names and addresses of the owners of those quarter-sections of unoccupied and non-producing lands which are lying dormant so far as agricultural production is concerned, the presumption being that in a number of cases the owners would be interested in either a financial or pastoral point of view in offers on the part of prospective settlers to purchase or lease their holdings.

The vital necessity for increasing the surplus under crop makes it essential that assistance be rendered to all agencies that might be instrumental in accelerating the "back to the land" movement. Now that the truth of the saying "what erode expression attributed to Napoleon that "an army travels on its stomach" is being emphasized more and more as the "great West" progresses, no better argument could possibly be advanced as to the imperative need for increasing our production which of course entails an immediate increase in the acreage under crop.

The lists are available for distribution covering the various lands districts throughout the Province of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, those for Alberta to follow at an early date. Applicants should state the district in which they are interested when making application to the Natural Resources Intelligence Bureau of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa.

They ran down the valley at a moderate speed, and Foster, looking round when they came to a straight piece of road, was not surprised to find a few moments afterwards but it dashed out again every now and then, until they plunged into a thick fir wood. They were about half-way to the station, but the lights had not yet come. Foster, however, did not expect it to do so, because he thought Daly would be satisfied if he kept his supposed victim in sight. The danger would arise when they got near the station, and whether they overcame it or not depended on the alertness and nerve. Foster thought the man would not fall him.

It was a dark night and a damp dew had thickened the gloom. Stone walls and ragged trees, bushes, and fields, all one could see nothing out of the bright beam. This was a disadvantage, because Foster could not tell where the man was, and he depended on his reaching the station with exactly the right time to spare. He was rather nervous about it, since his plan was spoiled at the moment if the train was not there. He had a match in the pocket of the trousers, but he did not want to light it, for it might be seen by the watchman. He did not seem prudent to distract John's attention either.

By and by the lights vanished and withered light, glimmering with damp mist, and the car, they were running through a grey mist, with a deep ditch on one side and climbing the incline, to judge by the heavy thud of the engine. Shallow ruts, and showers splashed about the wheels. Outside the bright beam, the darkness was impenetrable. Foster, however, was conscious of a pleasant thrill. If one looked at the thing in one way, he was plunging into trouble, that might have been avoided, but he had been prudent long enough and found a strange satisfaction in being right. He knew that matter what difficulties he got into, he would be repaid by the victory of the look Alice had given him.

The way the color swept into his face had altered him as nothing else had done. Anyhow, he had started on the adventure, and he was going to see it through.

"After a time, they saw across the bushes, where a warm splash of moonlight shone, and John's eyes began to see it through.

"Ten minutes, if the train's punctual." "And where's the other car, sir?" Foster, whose eyes were dazzled by the match he had struck, looked in the dark, and saw a misty flash in the dark.

"About half a mile behind, I think." "Very good, sir. It all depends on the train now, sir, not on me, sir."

The third of the engine quivered and struck a sharper note, and Foster felt the car leap forward up the track. Turning in his seat, he watched the flickering beam behind and saw it grow fainter and then graduate into bright light. It looked as if the pursuers, who had crept up right of the front car, had been increasing their speed.

"They're creeping up," he said to John, who did not reply. "They have reached the top of the moor, and as they swung up and down across the moor, the engine was running all out. Showers of small stones and water flew up about the wheels and the wind whistled in his face, but the following train was a little nearer when he looked behind. The other car had reached the summit and it would be a close race, but he thought they could keep their lead long enough. Then he looked ahead and saw that the bright beam had been cut off, and the pursuers, who had crept up right of the front car, had been increasing their speed.

Death Is Not Terrible

Life Has a Plan and Moves to One Supreme Moment

All insects we believe life has a plan, and it is not an accident in the day—moves to one supreme moment. For those who have lived, that moment has come for us, and we are now in the hands of the great power. For those who have lived, that moment has come for us, and we are now in the hands of the great power. For those who have lived, that moment has come for us, and we are now in the hands of the great power.

It crossed the floor to the opposite window, from which he could see the looking office, but as he looked the strap he felt a jerk. Then the engine passed and the wheels began to turn. He was back to the other door, but there was only the porter on the platform and the lamp were sliding past. Pulling up the window, he turned to the passenger seat. "Sorry if I disturbed you," the man said, "but I had to go."

In the meantime, John turned the round and drove back to the bend. The road was a straight line, and there was room for two vehicles to pass. Foster, however, took the proper side, John, however, took the other. When a dashing beam swept round the curve, he blew his horn; there was an answering shriek from an electric motor, and then a savage roar. Foster, however, was not so close as he thought. He was not so close as he thought. He was not so close as he thought.

He thought the other came near to knocking him down for he clutched his fist, but after a savage exclamation he went back to the car. "The engine won't move here. How are we going to get out?"

"I could give you a pull, sir," John replied, "but I can't reach it. They keep a rope at the station for shunting. Perhaps you had better send someone to get it."

A New Era in Jerusalem

Richness and Peace No Longer are at the Thresholds of the Towns and Villages

A correspondent at Jerusalem writes: "Although our occupation dates only four months back, the new atmosphere of this region seems to have undergone a change. Distress has vanished and sickness and fear no longer are at the thresholds of the towns and villages. Everywhere there is evidence of reviving industry and prosperity. Everybody realizes that a new era has dawned for the land."

The Bedouins can graze their flocks in peace and security, and husbandmen can till the soil with the knowledge that they will not be robbed of the fruits of their labor. The roads which are being built rapidly in every direction and the railway to Gaza will insure them easy disposal of their surplus yield. The British Empire has been built on the ruins of the old empires. The British Empire has been built on the ruins of the old empires.

Profiteering in Germany

The Reasons for Taking Over the Daimler Factories by the Government

The latest German papers to reach this country are devoted, considerably space to the so-called "Daimler case," which was stirred all Germany. The principal character in the case is the Daimler firm, of Stuttgart, which is one of the largest German concerns manufacturing automobiles and aeroplane motors.

A few days ago the German public was informed that the German military authorities had taken over the entire control of the Daimler works. The reasons for taking over the Daimler factories by the government were not explained until a few days later when the matter was taken up in the Reichstag and discussed by the Reichstag deputies and the representatives of the government. On that occasion it was brought out that the Daimler firm repeatedly without sufficient reasons, had raised its prices of automobiles sold to the German government, and had refused to allow the government to inspect its books, and that its profits ran as high as 150 per cent, while the firm intended that its profits did not amount to more than 11 per cent.

How Canada's Greatest Shoe House Supplies the Nation's Footwear

CONSIDER the amount of time and the infinite care you take when buying footwear to suit your own taste in regard to style, size, etc. Multiply your own individual needs by millions and you will get an idea of the immense task which confronts the makers of Canada's footwear, and the size of the organization it is necessary to maintain for that purpose.

The buying of a single pair of shoes is an event that occupies a person but a few moments two or three times a year—but to meet the accumulated demand of a nation requires the organization of a nation. It requires the whole resources of a gigantic industry. Ames Holden McCready are truly "Shoemakers to the Nation." It is a life justified by their size and the importance of their business.

It may be a revelation to many Canadians to know that to supply them with proper footwear, this firm maintains huge factories each with many acres of floor space, and hundreds of intricate, almost human, machines—facilities and equipment sufficient to turn out 6,000 pairs of shoes every working day.

It requires a small army of work-people, clerks and warehousemen, in addition to executives, buyers and travellers.

It requires much study and thought to plan styles and models of Men's, Women's and Children's shoes in their various grades and styles.

In order to secure the best results in the production of various kinds and grades, it is also necessary to specialize.

When you see the A. H. M. trade mark on a shoe, you know that not only is that mark an endorsement by the largest shoe concern in Canada, but being the product of a highly organized industry, the shoe you are buying represents the utmost in value, style and wearing qualities which can be obtained at the price.

Far off fields look green as a rule, but after a trip through the fields in the south easterly portion of the Province we have come to the conclusion that Bassano's fields are greener than any, and conditions are more favorable.

There are several crossings in town, and in particular over the lane between the post office and Dr. Scott's office, which are positively dangerous, and we suggest that it might be in the best interests of the town if these danger spots were removed.

The Glorious Twenty-fourth

Following the usual custom the weather clerk had his annual spring clean on the Twenty-fourth of May again this year.

After emptying his ice-boxes and cleaning up the staid chambers in the morning, he took down the storm windows from the second store in the afternoon and finished up by shutting down the hot-blast furnace in the evening to cool down the atmosphere after his exertions.

It was regrettable that the annual spring clean had to be accomplished on the same day that Hutton had chosen for his Annual Picnic, for if it were not for this, there would have been a most enjoyable event.

Despite the early indications of what the weather men had in store, a large number of Bassano people eschewed the trip to Hutton in the hope that he was only fooling, for the cry of "Wolf" has so often proved a hoax this spring, that people clinged to the heel of the warnings any longer.

The Ball Team who went out, and as far as we have been able to gather from the many reports handed to us, they must have taken their beating early with them, for the latest returns place the score at 27-7.

A couple of knuckle-bone customers furnished a whole bunch of amusement for the crowd during the game and kept interest in the slaughter alive until the whistles cried "enough" in the eighth inning.

One of the largest crowds ever seen at a picnic had gathered for the occasion and the weather man was the only incongruous person in the bunch.

The number of autos of all makes, sizes, and conditions which were parked round the grounds was astounding, and afforded an illustrative object lesson of the universality of this of travel over the old-line horse and buggy.
